Mauro Stemberger.

My interest in "that fascinating Bonsai World" started in 1993.

I was very curious about the intrinsic beauty of these small-large works of art.

A beauty that harmoniously interacts nature and man. The continuous research of an aesthetic perfection, which we will never succeed to catch up in the course of our short life. That makes us appreciate these small creatures day by day, having the honour to see them on the stands in our garden.

Therefore the passion for this particular art holds alive in me and in the time coming. In a particular way I'm stimulated to always learn something new, thanks to the dialogue and the continuous exchange of experiences with bonsai friends around the world.
